1. MESSAGE FROM THE MANAGING DIRECTOR

To the Senior Leadership Team,

The financial year 2025–26 closed on 31 March. We ended the year as fifty-two colleagues, serving distributors and retailers across five states, a growing list of institutional accounts, and a base of consumers who increasingly buy from us by name. I want to record my thanks to every one of you, and to your teams, for the work behind that year.

Several things were accomplished that deserve to be named. The organic certification for our little millet range came through in February and took us into a category we had been preparing for since 2024. Our surveillance audit in July and the regulatory inspection in February were both completed without a major non-conformity — a reflection of the discipline your teams maintain on the shop floor and in the laboratory every single day. We commissioned the cold room. We took our products into quick commerce in two metros. We renewed our largest institutional contract. None of these were the work of one department, and none of them happened by accident.

We now begin the tenth year of this company. It is worth remembering where we started: a rented shed off Trichy Road, one pulverizer, six people, and fourteen provision stores in Coimbatore willing to give us shelf space. Everything we have was built one order at a time.

I want to set out where the leadership intends to take Vayal Foods over the next two to three years.

Our ambition is to build Vayal into the millet foods brand that households across South India reach for by name — and to do so while remaining a manufacturer that owns its own factory, knows its own farmers, and stands behind every batch it releases. We intend to be present across our region as a mainstream retail brand rather than a regional one. We intend to hold a meaningful position in the institutional and bulk segment that has served us well since 2019. We intend to carry a wider range on the shelf than the one we carry today, and to source a materially larger share of our millet directly from the farmer groups we work with.

We will grow at a pace we can fund, staff and control. Growth that outruns our ability to make the product properly is not growth we want.

And we will not compromise on the things that brought consumers to us in the first place. No added sugar. No maida. No artificial colours or flavours. Clean labelling. The same product in the pack this month as last month. Every objective in this document is subordinate to that commitment. If any of them ever come into conflict, the commitment wins.

What follows is direction, not instruction. The leadership team knows this business, its customers and its constraints better than any document can. I am telling you where we intend to arrive; how we get there is the work I am asking you to lead.

I look forward to that work with each of you.

2. STRATEGIC OBJECTIVES

The following objectives define what the leadership intends Vayal Foods to achieve over the financial year 2026-27 and the two years that follow.

2.1 Growth

Achieve sustainable double-digit revenue growth, at a rate the business can support with its own manufacturing capacity, working capital and people. Growth is to be broad-based across our channels rather than concentrated in any single one.

2.2 Profitability

Improve profitability at both the gross and net level, and strengthen the quality of earnings. Leadership expects margin improvement to come from how well we run the business rather than from any dilution of product specification.

2.3 Market Presence

Expand our geographic footprint beyond the states we serve today, and deepen our presence in the markets where we are already established. Leadership expects the share of revenue originating outside Tamil Nadu to rise steadily over the planning horizon.

2.4 Product Portfolio

Extend the product range beyond the lines we carry today, taking new products from development into commercial launch during the year. Leadership expects new products introduced over the last two years to become a visible and growing contributor to revenue.

2.5 Customer Base

Grow the customer base across every channel — retail consumers, trade partners and institutional buyers — while raising the proportion of customers who return to us. Leadership regards retention as being of at least equal importance to acquisition.

2.6 Manufacturing Capability

Raise the efficiency and utilisation of our manufacturing operation, and improve the reliability and consistency of what leaves the factory. Leadership expects the plant to support the growth plan without any reduction in quality standards.

2.7 Quality and Compliance

Maintain full certification standing and regulatory compliance across every site and every batch. This objective is not subject to trade-off against any other objective in this document.

2.8 Digital Adoption

Increase digital adoption across manufacturing, supply chain, sales and customer service, so that the business runs on shared, current information rather than on individual records and recollection. Leadership expects our digital channels to grow as a share of the business.

2.9 People

Build the capability, depth and stability of the team. Leadership expects Vayal to be a place where people build careers, take on larger responsibility, and stay.

2.10 Sustainability and Sourcing

Increase the share of millet we source directly from farmer producer organisations, extend the districts we source from, and continue to expand our own renewable energy generation and responsible packaging practice.

3. BUSINESS PRIORITIES FOR THE YEAR

The following are designated as the priority focus areas for the financial year 2026–27. They describe what leadership wants achieved. The approach, sequencing, resourcing and ownership of each are matters for the leadership team to determine and bring back to the Management Review.

No.	Priority Focus Area	What Leadership Wants Achieved
1	Distributor relationships	A distribution network that is wider, more productive per outlet, and more committed to the brand than it is today.
2	Geographic expansion	A credible retail presence in markets we do not serve today, and greater depth in the markets we already do.
3	E-commerce and quick commerce	A larger and better-run digital business, present where our consumers actually shop, with consistent availability.
4	Institutional and bulk business	A broader base of institutional accounts and longer, more durable relationships with the ones we have.
5	Production planning and capacity	A plant that runs closer to what it is capable of, plans reliably, and can absorb the growth we are asking of it.
6	Quality systems	Quality standing that is beyond question — in certification, in traceability, and in what the consumer finds in the pack.
7	Inventory and working capital	A leaner working capital cycle and inventory that is sized to demand rather than to habit.
8	Customer experience	A customer who is served quickly, receives the product in the condition we intended, and comes back.
9	New product development	A disciplined pipeline that converts ideas into launched products, and launched products into revenue.
10	Employee capability	A team with more skill, more certification and more internal advancement than it has today.
11	Direct farm sourcing	A larger, wider and more secure direct relationship with the farmer groups who grow our millet.
12	Brand	A brand that is recognised by name in our core markets, and understood for what it stands for.

4. PERFORMANCE AREAS

Leadership will assess progress across six broad performance areas. The specific indicators, targets and thresholds within each area are to be proposed by the leadership team and agreed at the first Management Review of the year.

4.1 Financial Performance

Revenue growth, margin at both gross and net level, cost discipline, working capital efficiency, cash position, and return on the capital employed in the business.

4.2 Customer Growth

Reach and depth of distribution, growth across each channel, acquisition of new customers and accounts, retention and repeat behaviour, and the standing of the brand with the people who buy it.

4.3 Operational Excellence

Output and capacity utilisation, planning reliability, cost of production, service levels to customers and trade partners, inventory performance, and the quality and compliance record.

4.4 Employee Development

Capability building and training, certification and qualification, internal advancement, workforce stability, and safety at every site.

4.5 Sustainability

Direct sourcing from farmer producer organisations, the terms on which we deal with our farmer partners, renewable energy generation, responsible packaging, and resource consumption per unit of output.

4.6 Innovation

Movement of the development pipeline from concept to launch, the commercial contribution of recently launched products, and the adoption of technology across manufacturing, supply chain and customer-facing operations.
